Federal Tax On 1942 Incomes May Be Doubled

All-Time Mark Set By Demand

Chief Of Treasury Reads Program To Solons

MANY PAY MORE

'Loopholes' Will Be Closed By Bill

WASHINGTON, March 3 — Gravelly warning that "to defeat the strongest combination of enemies in our history we must spend on a scale unprecedented," Treasury Secretary Morgenthau today laid before Congress an all-time record "tax for victory" program which hits hardest at the middle income earner, and swells federal revenues by $7,610,000,000.

In brief, the plan contemplates: Doubling lower and middle bracket personal income levies with lesser percentage increases in the already heavily taxed upper incomes, to raise an additional $3,200,000,000.

Authorizing a "collection at the source" system under which 10 percent could be deducted from wages or other income as a credit toward these taxes.

Imposing new excise or "hidden" levies on soft drinks, candy and chewing gum and generally increasing most excise taxes, especially on gasoline, beer, distilled spirits and cigarettes, all to net $1,340,000,000.

Sharply increasing excess profits and estate and gift taxes and levying on corporation incomes a special war surtax of 31 percent. This will yield $3,360,000,000, but will diminish other federal revenues by $1,000,000,000.

Plugging $680,000,000 worth of "loopholes" by which, Morgenthau said, "some taxpayers are escaping their just burden."

"We are at war and an adequate tax program is vital to the successful prosecution of the war," he told the House ways and means committee in submitting his unprecedented proposals. "The new taxes will be severe, and their impact will be felt in every American home. War is never cheap, but it is a million times cheaper to win than to lose."

Stressing his belief that "taxes should be imposed in accordance with ability to pay," Morgenthau strongly opposed any general federal sales levy and also any further lowering of present personal income tax exemptions of $750 for single and $1,500 for married persons.

It is expected that it will take at least two or three months before the House completes action on the new tax suggestions. The new income taxes would be levied against 1942 incomes. Morgenthau asked authority to begin collecting the income levies at the source "at any time."

Doubles All Others

The program—more than double any previous tax plan in United States history—would increase total general federal revenues to a record $23,610,000,000. But even with this the secretary warned it still will be necessary to borrow $39,800,000,000 more this year in order to pay for the tools to beat (Continued on Page Two)

Gen. Hein Ter Poorten

The Dutch general, above, replaces General Wavell of the British army as commander-in-chief of forces defending the Netherlands East Indies against the onslaughts of the Japanese. General Wavell has been returned to India to plan the British scheme of defense against an expected Japanese offensive. Some observers believe that recall of Wavell is a step toward appointment of General Douglas MacArthur, hero of the Philippines, as commander of the allied forces.

Shells Being Poured At Three Islands Of Archipelago

WASHINGTON, March 3—In an attempt to extend their domination of the Philippine archipelago, Japanese naval units today were reported shelling at least seven points on three islands in the central and southern zone.

Despite Japanese activity in Java, the enemy apparently has had naval units to spare for a concerted attack on the islands of Cebu, Negros and Mindanao.

War Bulletins

LONDON—A strong warning that Britain's food position is causing anxiety and that the nation must tighten its belt was issued by an authoritative British spokesman today. "We are passing through a special period of anxiety regarding food supplies and distribution," the spokesman said.

LONDON—A solemn warning that the Dutch defenders of Java cannot hold out indefinitely in view of their heavy losses was sounded today by Dr. W. G. Peckema, a member of the Netherlands East Indies colonial department in London. "We have had tremendous losses, and we continue to suffer heavy losses," he said.

MELBOURNE — A Royal Australian air force communiqué said today that enemy planes bombed Bulolo and Wau on New Guinea island Sunday, damaging buildings but causing no casualties. An enemy aircraft bombed Tulagi in the Solomon Islands yesterday. No damage or casualties were reported.

Navy Reveals World War Craft Hit Saturday On East Coast

U-Boat Not Sighted Prior To Fatal Attack Just Before Dawn

WASHINGTON, March 3—The Navy department announced today that the Jacob Jones, a 1,200-ton American destroyer, has been torpedoed and sunk off Cape May, N. J., by an enemy submarine. The sinking occurred last Saturday, announcement being made today in the Navy's 50th communiqué.

The text follows: "Atlantic area: The U.S.S. Jacob Jones, a World War destroyer, was sunk by an enemy submarine off Cape May, N. J., just before dawn on February 28, 1942. 11 Men Survive

"There were only 11 survivors consisting of nine engine room ratings and two apprentice seamen. Factual information in regard to the circumstances that led to the sinking is sparse because of the lack of deck ratings among the survivors.

"It has been established, however, that prior to receiving the first torpedo hit, the enemy submarine was not sighted nor was the torpedo.

"The first torpedo blew up the bow and apparently killed all the personnel on the bridge as well as the men sleeping in the forward living compartments.

"The second torpedo which was fired after the submarine circled ahead of the Jacob Jones blew up the stern and all the depth charges.

NELSON WARNS U. S. TO FORGET 'ALL BUT WAR'

WASHINGTON, March 3—Donald M. Nelson's blue-print for an immediate 25 percent expansion in existing war production today served as a backdrop for two other major developments in the nation's drive to push "up and beyond" the President's armament goals.

While the WPB chief called on the country to forget everything but "war and production" in the next 10 months, his aides disclosed that a new midwestern plant has begun mass production of a new medium tank and announced a plan for applying assembly line methods to the shipbuilding program.

The new M-4 tank, using cast steel and welded hulls to a much greater extent than the old M-3, is the forerunner of thousands of similar design that will be built this year as part of President Roosevelt's program for 45,000 tanks in 1942.

Location of the new tank arsenal was not revealed.

Reports from Java indicate that Japanese forces attempting to invade the principal island of the Dutch East Indies are meeting the strongest resistance they have encountered anywhere in the Far Eastern war theater. Arrows on the map, right, indicate the three main points of invasion. American, Dutch, British and Australian ground, air and sea forces have combined in an attempt to drive the invaders back into the sea. Bandoeng is the military headquarters of the United Nations in the Far East. Approach of sea-borne Japanese troops toward the coast of Java was the signal for a smashing attack by Allied sea and air forces. Reported Japanese losses of ships and men were very heavy. Shortly after the Japanese had effected a landing Allied defenders launched a counter-attack.

VIERECK LETTER LAUDING REICH CHIEF IS READ

WASHINGTON, March 3—Over the strenuous objections of the defense, the government today succeeded in introducing letters into the federal district court trial of George Sylvester Viereck, registered German agent, in which he expressed admiration for Hitler.

The letters were written by Viereck to the editors of Liberty magazine and their disclosure came during cross-examination of Sheppard Butler, executive editor, placed on the stand as a defense witness.

Viereck is charged with failure to make proper registration with the state department.

Government attorneys in examining Butler brought out that in a letter written July 6, 1940, to Fulton Oursler, the Liberty's editor-in-chief, Viereck had protested stories which appeared in Liberty and True Story magazines dealing with an alleged affair between Pauline Kohler, a maid, and Hitler.

"You know I have never concealed my admiration for the dynamic qualities of Hitler," Viereck wrote. "You may recall that in 1935 I said: 'If he lives, Hitler, for better, for worse, is sure to make history.'"

"This story obviously is fictitious. I wanted to be sure of the facts but because the British pitifully interfere with my mail, I have asked the German charge d'affaires in Washington to check them for me."

WPB Orders Tailors To Simplify Men's Suits

WASHINGTON, March 3—A bit too late to catch the spring style shows, America's foremost fashion authority—the War Production Board—today advised that the well dressed man will be wearing trousers without cuffs, coats three fourths of an inch shorter, and suits with one pair of pants next season.

Then as an added fillip, the WPB summarily banned full dressed tails, the cut away coat and the double-breasted tuxedo. In short, that shiny, single-breasted tux you have been preserving in mothballs all these years is going to be in the height of fashion.

Simplification of men's and boys' suits and overcoats was ordered effective March 30, for all clothing manufacturers except merchant tailors, for whom the effective date is May 30.

The WPB decree comes as a wool conservation measure intended to enable clothing manufacturers to make as many garments as possible out of the sharply reduced amounts of new wool available for civilian use.

HENDERSON HITS THEATRE 'KISS' HIGH RENTS IN KILLER TO GIVE DEFENSE AREAS INSANITY PLEA

WASHINGTON, March 3—Twenty communities from Connecticut to California today were the objects of Price Administrator Leon Henderson's wrath because of "rent-gouging" while 100 more defense areas were scheduled to feel the lash within a short time.

Henderson warned that no one is going to be permitted to "profiteer in rents" and gave the 20 communities 60 days in which to restore rents to "proper levels."

If the inflated rents are not brought down within allotted time limit, Henderson said that he would establish federal rent ceilings under authority granted him under the recently-enacted price control act.

OPA officials said that 100 other communities where rents have soared beyond all reason as result of war production and military activities will be the targets of rent-regulation orders as quickly as possible. New groups will be announced week by week, it was said.

In most of the 20 cases, Henderson recommended that rents be cut back to where they were on April 1, 1941. In other areas, July 1 or January 1, 1941, were fixed as proper levels.

SIX FLEE FORT THOMAS PRISON; SAWS ARE USED

FT. THOMAS, Ky., March 3—Six prisoners, all from Kentucky, who escaped from the guardhouse at Ft. Thomas by sawing the bars from their cell windows, were sought in the Ohio river valley today by civil police and army authorities.

The prisoners jumped to the ground and fled to a woods along the Ohio river. The post commander ordered an immediate investigation to determine how the saw blades were smuggled into the cell.

Triple Assault On Burma Front Indicated Soon; Wavell In India

BANDUNG, Java, March 3—"It can be stated without reservation that the situation remains well in hand on all fronts," an authorized spokesman said tonight at 11:15.

LONDON, March 3—The London Evening Standard published a report from Bandung today to the effect that Japanese forces on the island of Java have been pushed back seven miles in one sector. The dispatch reported the Japanese using flame-throwers in central Java.

By LEO V. DOLAN

INS War Editor

The Japanese and United Nations forces traded blow for blow in the air over the island of Java today after the enemy's ground forces were fought to a standstill by the all-out counter attack of American, Dutch and British troops.

The Japs sent 42 big bombing planes and 18 fighter craft into a protracted raid on Bandung, headquarters of the United Nations command. Their main objective was the airdrome from which have operated the American flying fortresses and other United Nations planes that have dealt death and destruction to Jap invasion armadas off the Java coast. In addition to dropping loads of bombs, the Japs swung their fighting planes low over the airfield and turned machine guns loose on hangars and barracks, inflicting 102 casualties.

Planes of the United Nations launched similar attacks on the enemy—and with better results. Ten Jap fighter planes were machinegunned and put out of action in a raid on one Jap-occupied airdrome, while Dutch bombers sank a large tanker and scored direct hits on two large transport ships off the coast.

No Advances Scored
This exchange of air raids came on the heels of a guardedly optimistic announcement that not since Sunday have the Japs been able to push forward from the territory gained in their initial invasion thrusts.

Work was anxiously awaited meanwhile concerning a huge new Japanese invasion armada which yesterday was reported steaming toward the Java coast.

Latest reports estimated the new Jap invasion fleet at between 70 and 90 transport vessels, escorted by warships. Hours after the sea caravan was first sighted and defending planes and warships went into action against it, there was still no fresh news of the progress of the sea engagement.

Likewise, there was no news of any fresh Japanese landings on Java island, where counter-blows by American, Dutch, British and Australian land-air forces seemingly had halted—for the time being (Continued on Page Two)

FBI BREAKS UP STRONG FASCIST UNIT ON COAST

Series Of Spy Raids In Pacific Region Nets 75 Of Leaders

GROUP BACKED BY DUCE

Naval Guard Placed Over Some Of Vital Points In Frisco Area

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3—FBI agents in San Francisco today pored over scores of papers and records seized in a series of spy raids on the Pacific coast that resulted in smashing of a powerful Mussolini-sponsored Fascist organization.

The raids, it was disclosed, netted at least 75 leaders of the group, 20 of whom already have been hustled off to internment camps.

Federal agents said the organization was known as the Federation of Italian World War Veterans in the U. S. A. and had the support of the Italian government, and pointed out that while both Italian citizens and naturalized American citizens were on the rolls of the organization, the 75 arrested all are aliens.

The organization has long been suspected by the FBI of subversive activity in behalf of the Italian government, being an offshoot of the Associazione Nazionale Condotti (National Association of Fighters), set up by Il Duce himself.

Arresting agents disclosed that along with important papers and records seized in the raids, Fascist paraphernalia such as black shirts, guns, ammunition, tasseled caps and swords also were confiscated.

11 Aliens Grabbed

Widely scattered raids throughout Oregon by FBI men yesterday, meanwhile, saw seven German aliens and four Italians taken into custody, with raids continuing into the night.

At Portland, Ore., J. Douglas Swenson, in charge of the FBI headquarters there, declared the raids were aimed at contraband and said his men, aided by local officers, had confiscated 23 sticks of dynamite in one locality, 13 rifles in various places, and cameras and short wave radio sets.

While the FBI continued its roundup of dangerous enemy aliens, some districts from which aliens have been ordered removed were under Navy guard already.

Terminal Isle Guarded

At Los Angeles harbor, the Navy has stationed armed sailors at Terminal island, on which the Japanese fishing colony lived for years, with both aliens and American citizens of Japanese descent barred.

Aside from the breaking up of the Italian organization, the San Francisco FBI bureau had three more alien arrests to report, that of Heinrich Karl Kober, German school teacher, in Oakland, August Treubel, San Francisco German, and Tatsuo Kanagaki, a Japanese of Contra Costa county, affiliate of a society which collected funds for the Japanese government.

ing at least—the Jap infiltrations from the three beachheads gained by the invaders.

To Try Landings

But the new seaborne enemy forces were expected to attempt additional landings on Java within a few hours—provided they can get past the defending warships and planes.

Meanwhile, the new Far Eastern command shake-up led to intense speculation in Washington over possible appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as commander-in-chief of the United Nations forces in the Pacific.

British Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell has been relieved of that post and returned to his former role as commander-in-chief for India, with responsibility for the defense of Burma, where he is now directing operations against the Japanese.

Direction of the defense of Java has been left in the hands of the Dutch, with Gen. Hein Ter Poorten exercising control over the United Nations forces there.

In Washington observers believed the retirement of Wavell to India, now gravely menaced by the Japs, may lead to MacArthur's removal from the Philippines to lead the United Nations forces against the Japanese in the entire southwestern Pacific war theater.

Advices from the Burma front indicated a triple Jap assault on the British defense lines there is imminent. At the same time, north of Pegu, British imperial forces counter-attacked in an effort to drive out Japanese forces which had captured a section of the Rangoon-Lashio railway.

Planes Hit Australia

From Melbourne came word that Japanese planes once more have attacked the Australian mainland.

A communique said the northwestern Australian coastal towns of Broome and Wyndham had been attacked by Jap raiders which bombed and machine-gunned the communities without causing casualties.

The raids marked the first attacks on the Australian mainland since the recent air raids on Port Darwin, strategic Australian north coast base.

Moscow's news continued to be favorable for the United Nations. A Soviet report said a Red army spearhead had penetrated 27 miles behind the Nazi lines on the Leningrad front.

In addition, the destruction of 77 German planes on Sunday was announced. This brought the total number of Nazi aircraft destroyed on Friday, Saturday and Sunday to 192.

was assured with development of a plan for converting mills that formerly turned out sheet steel for automobile bodies to manufacture of plate for merchant ships.

the axis. He told the committee that in addition the administration still wants another $2,000,000,000 to be raised later in increased social security taxes.

In the field of personal income taxes, the treasury program seeks another $3,200,000,000 by eliminating the present 10 percent credit for earned income and by starting the surtaxes at 12 percent instead of the present six percent.

These surtaxes, which now range from six to 77 percent, would, under the new plan, climb from 12 percent on the first taxable dollar, to 86 percent, with sharp increases in the lower brackets. In addition to paying these levies, the individual would still have to meet the normal four percent impost on his total income.

Thus, a single person with no dependents earning $1,000 a year, who paid only $4 last year, must pay $21 this March 15, will pay $40 next year. If he earned $3,000, the three taxes would be $84, $221, and $470; if $10,000, they would be $986, $1,493, and $2,720, and if $100,000 the taxes would be last year, $44,268, this year, $53,214, and next year, $69,625.

A married person with no children who earns $3,000 a year paid $31 last year, will pay $138 this year and $285 next, under the plan. If the income was $10,000 the taxes would rise from $528 to $1,305 to $2,335, and if he earned $100,000 the three levies would be $4,476, $52,704, and $68,965.

A married person with two children with a $5,000 income paid $75 last year, pays $271 this year and $587 next. At $10,000 these taxes would be $440, $1,117, and $2,143, and at $100,000, $42,948, $52,160 and $68,261.

"Collection At Source"

Both because the average man will have trouble meeting these greatly increased taxes in lump sums, and because he feels purchasing power must be drawn off now to guard against inflation, Morgenthau asked the committee to give him authority to impose a "collection at the source" deduction of up to 10 percent on the nation's taxable income.

In the field of corporate levies, the treasury asks for an additional $3,060,000,000. This would be raised by a general 15 percent increase in excess profits taxes, to make them run from 50 to 75 percent instead of the present 35 to 60 percent, and by the imposition of the 31 percent special war surtax. This levy would fall on all normal corporate incomes of above $25,000 a year and would be in addition to the present 24 percent corporation income tax.

Credits would be allowed, however, for corporations which show a decline in income, and on corporations earning less than $25,000, the war tax would be 16 percent.

In excise, or "hidden" taxes on special commodities, the treasury asks for an additional $1,340,000,

000. Only two commodities not now taxed, however, would be included. These are soft drinks, one cent a bottle or equivalent, to raise $146,900,000, and candy and chewing gum, a 15 percent sales tax to yield $45,300,000.

Biggest new yield in excise levies under the treasury plan would be $279,700,000 by boosting liquor imposts from $4 to $6 a gallon. In addition, the federal tax on gasoline would be increased from one and a half to three cents a gallon for another $242,000,000, beer levies would be upped from $6 to $8 a barrel for $117,100,000, and cigarettes from the present flat $3.25 per 1,000 to $3.50 per 1,000 of 10 cent brands and $4 per 1,000 for 15 cent brands, to net $188,600,000.

More On Telephones

Other proposed increases in excise levies include boosting the tax on local telephone bills from six to 10 percent and general increases in taxes on wines, smoking tobacco, lubricating oil, personal transportation and photographic apparatus.

Estate and gift taxes would net an additional $330,000,000 by eliminating the present $40,000 exemption of insurance and increasing rates which now range from three to 77 percent to eight to 80 percent.

In "icophole plugging," which Morgenthau called "removal of intolerable special privileges," the treasury asked:

1. To abolish income tax exemption on proceeds from state and local bonds or other securities.
2. To compel husband and wife to file joint instead of separate income tax returns unless the income is actually earned separately.

This proposal was defeated after a bitter congressional fight last year.

3. To eliminate the system by which mine and oil well owners are allowed a "percentage depletion" against their taxes.

POSTOFFICE SCORES NEW RECORD FOR FEBRUARY

Postmaster Hulse Hays reported Tuesday that February postal receipts amounted to $3,231,04, setting a new record for that month.

Previous record was made in February, 1939, with receipts totaling $3,220,49. During February last year the total figure was $2,826.59.

January also set a new record at the postoffice with receipts running $404.15 better than those of January, 1941, which held the previous record.

EIGHT APPEALS FOR NEW CARS TO BE STUDIED

Seven Circleville Buyers Claim Contracts Signed Before First Of Year

BOARD MEETS THURSDAY

Allocation Of Tires And Tubes During Last Two Months Disclosed

Circleville tire rationing board will rule on applications for eight new cars when it meets Thursday night.

Seven of the applications were filed by persons who claim they completed arrangements for the purchase of cars before January 1, 1942. One application was made for the purchase of a new car under the present regulations, whereby the applicant must comply with rules for eligibility.

The March quota in passenger car and truck tires and tubes has not yet been allocated for the city rationing board, and no new tires under the new month's allocation can be granted until the quota is received from the county rationing council.

Most of the truck tires and tubes which were issued by the local board during February went to big truckers and very few to farmers, Leslie D. May, rationing board chairman said. Passenger tires and tubes were granted to those complying with the eligibility requirements. Two rural mail carriers, an electrician, two doctors and three ministers received new tires from the February quota. Chairman May said.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff's department also received a new tire out of the February quota.

Allocation of tires and tubes by the county rationing council during the last two months follows:

JANUARY

Circleville: eight passenger tires, five passenger tubes, 21 truck tires, 21 truck tubes.
Tarlton: two truck tires, two truck tubes.
New Holland: one passenger tire, one passenger tube, two truck tires, two truck tubes.
Williamsport: one passenger tire, four passenger tubes, three truck tires, two truck tubes.
Darbyville: two passenger tires, one passenger tube, two truck tires, two truck tubes.
Commercial Point: two passenger tires, one passenger tube, two truck tires, two truck tubes.
Ashville: two passenger tires,

Draft Boards Start Rechecking Men Deferred For Minor Physical Ills

Another mass trek of Ohioans toward the nation's military camps moved a step nearer Tuesday as the state's 330 selective service boards began rechecking lists to make men with minor visual and dental defects available for war service.

The boards were acting on orders from Washington which slightly reduced the visual and dental standards heretofore required.

While state headquarters said it was not possible to make an accurate estimate now of the number of men to be made available by the change, it was pointed out that deferments which put men in classes 1-B and 4-F for minor defects ran rather high.

Of the 854,598 embraced in the first registration the deferments for visual defects were about 15 percent and for dental defects about 20 percent.

Hundreds of dental defects, it was pointed out, were chalked up against men otherwise physically perfect, and included those who had complete sets of false teeth.

New Tests Arranged
When these men are re-checked by their local boards, their numbers will be forwarded to state headquarters. They will later be ordered to report to various induction centers for new physical tests. This step will determine whether they will be called up for service.

Where the dental deficiencies are found to be easily remedied and to present no difficult treatment problems, the men will be called and their teeth put into condition by Army dentists.

There is no information available on how the Army will handle the cases of men heretofore deferred for visual defects.

The standard has been what is termed normal or 20-20 vision. This means, medical officers said, that a man can read a certain standard sized black letter on a

In some instances, they pointed out, he may have 20-20 vision in one eye and 20-18 or 20-30 in the other. This would mean that with the other eye he could read the No. 20 sized letter at 18 or at 30 feet. If he could read it at 30 feet his sight would be better, but at 18 feet it would be poorer because of the necessity for being two feet closer to the print.

For the time being, medical examinations for all Ohio men will continue to be given at the induction centers at Cleveland, Toledo, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Zanesville and Canton, and Wheeling, Parkersburg and Huntington, W. Va. Later additional centers

FAMED ITALIAN DUKE, 43, DIES

Ex-Viceroy Of Ethiopia British Captive At Time Of Death

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 3—The Duke of Aosta, former Italian viceroy of Ethiopia, died today at the age of 43.

He had been a captive of the British since he surrendered at Amba Alaji, Ethiopia, with 7,000 troops.

The surrender occurred May 19, 1941.

The duke had been suffering from tuberculosis for some time.

If he had lived he might eventually have sat on the throne of Italy. He was third in line to his cousin, King Victor Emmanuel.

One of Italy's tallest men, he was once mentioned during the course of the Spanish civil war as a possible occupant of a restored Spanish throne. That was a behind-the-scenes court plan, however, that never developed beyond the talking stage.

He was made viceroy of Ethiopia in December, 1937, a post he held until this part of the Italian "empire" was freed from the Fascist grasp last year.

The duke of Aosta's full name was Amedeo Humbert, Isabella, Louis Philippe, Marie, Joseph, Jean. His mother was Princess Helen of France, who was born in England and spent much of her youth in the British Isles.

His grandfather from 1870 to 1873 sat on the throne of Spain last occupied by Alfonso XIII.

The duke himself had been educated at Cambridge university in England and frequently had visited London.

In 1927 he married Princess Anne of France and they had two children, Princess Margherita and Maria Christiana.

may be opened in such cities as Akron.

Reception Centers Same
Reception centers for Ohioans will continue to be at Camp Perry and Fort Hayes, in Ohio, Fort Thomas in Kentucky and Fort Benjamin Harrison in Indiana, with many of those from the Cleveland area going to Fort Harrison.

Men are given only their physical tests and oaths at induction centers, state headquarters was careful to point out.

It is not until they report at the reception centers that they receive their aptitude tests, are typed for service, supplied with uniforms and dispatched to placement centers or training camps for actual military service.

There is little likelihood that many men will let minor ailments or defects go untreated, it was said, because they will be accepted for service anyway and given treatment later by Army physicians and surgeons.

New Pre-induction Program Outlined

The War department Tuesday advised national headquarters of the selective service system that all acceptable registrants will be inducted into the military forces at the time of the Army physical examination, thereby eliminating the present Army pre-induction procedure.

National headquarters said that the War department has given assurances that in cases where the immediate induction would cause undue hardship to the registrant he will be given an immediate furlough to adjust his civilian affairs.

Although the final physical examination by the Army will continue to be the most thorough one given to registrants, the local boards will continue to give "screening" examinations, rejecting the obviously physically unfit men.

Under the new procedure registrants will have the same rights of appeal and right of personal appearance before their local boards as they do at present.

Instead of receiving the notice to report for physical examination by the armed forces as they do now, the registrants will be given a notice of induction, national headquarters said.

FARM PROBLEM BEING VIEWED

Questionnaires Go Into Mails To Determine Labor Needs

Pickaway county farmers are among 262,000 in Ohio who will be mailed questionnaire cards by the U. S. employment service to obtain a reliable picture of Ohio's farm labor needs.

Local farmers and farm leaders complain that men who worked on their farms in the past either have found well-paying jobs in defense industries or have been drafted into military service. The labor shortage is noticed locally particularly during the harvest and cutting season.

Wade Hammond, director of the U. S. employment service in Ohio, from whose office the questionnaires will be mailed, declared in announcing the survey that "the practical approach to this problem is to find out as accurately as we can how many workers the farmers think they will need. Then we can go ahead with our plans to find these men and make them available for farm work."

When the survey is completed, the employment service will launch a program to recruit farm workers and make them available to farmers through the facilities of its 67 field offices in Ohio. Local office for the employment service is in the engineer's office of the court house and is open every Friday.

The card to be filled out by the farmer carries two questions: 1. I will (will not) need additional workers in 1942, and 2. I will (will not) be available for work on other farms.

Hammond expressed a belief that farmers would welcome the opportunity to cooperate with the program in order to solve their labor problems.

Milk Mixture For Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lulin from their druggist. Lulin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonsful in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Try a bottle. It must satisfy or money refunded. Blackout Deliveries

Many conveniences must be blacked out to help our armed forces. We must blackout deliveries and save tires and materials that are vital to defense. Carry every package you possibly can. The armed forces do their part defending us. Let's do our part by conserving things they need. Unnecessary deliveries are wasteful. Carry your packages when it is humanly possible.

DEVIL IN THE WOODPILE

WE Americans don't run much to bomb-throwing, except on the battle front where it's legitimized. But Americans who know the career and character of Franz von Papen, Nazi ambassador to Turkey, must have been sorry when the bomb thrown at him in Ankara the other day failed to find its mark. Of all the slimy characters enlisted in Adolf Hitler's crusade against civilization, von Papen is probably the slimiest.

He is one of the brightest and best equipped of all the German diplomats who have sold their talents to Adolf Hitler and their souls to the devil. Without them, Herr Schickelgruber could never have carried on his betrayal of civilization. Always, in a diplomatic pinch, there has been this slick operator at hand to plot and execute new international deviltries. His main field of operation has been pivotal Ankara, where he has managed so far to keep the Near East waters troubled and the Turkish government, which naturally favors the Allies, on the fence facing both ways. Sooner or later he will get his due.

HUNGER IN EUROPE

NOT much is being said or printed about the awful hunger and misery of our friends in Greece, in Poland, in Czechoslovakia, in France. We hear a bit now and again, we see a few dreadful pictures. Not much stress is being put on these matters—probably because they are so terrible the human mind can hardly bear to face them.

We've tried to send food, and found the food going to the soldiers of our enemies. We cannot beat this game by being decent or friendly or kind.

There's just one way to get food to our friends. Buy bonds. Build bombers, win the war. Then the peoples who have food can pour it over free oceans to those who haven't. Food, clothing, medicines, comforts. Freedom comes first. With freedom they can keep and use the food. Without it nothing matters.

THRIFT

WERE learning thrift, all right, and especially in a form that most of us wouldn't have expected.

Surveys indicate that in two months of sterner and thriftier living, as Americans have drastically reduced our driving speed and mileage. The former is rather hard to estimate, but the latter seems definitely reduced more than one-fourth.

Possibly there is more common sense shown in this field, so far, than in any

VICHY ISLAND SUSPECTED

WASHINGTON — When you get them out of official earshot, exiled members of the old French cabinet now in Washington, are very suspicious of what the Vichy Government is doing in Martinique and Guadeloupe.

Guadeloupe is a less publicized French island near Martinique, and certain coded messages have been intercepted indicating pro-German activities on both islands. Suspicion is strong that Guadeloupe is being used as a submarine refueling base for Nazi submarines operating in the Caribbean.

But when the State Department officially denied this recently, French ex-cabinet exiles remarked:

"Your State Department is still playing the gentlemen's game of diplomacy. You bow graciously and believe what is told you. But gentlemen do not know how to deal with gangsters."

French friends warn that the French Navy is fascist-minded, that Admiral Robert, commanding Vichy Martinique is pro-German; that there will be shortage against French ships in Martinique harbor if they should be threatened with seizure by the Allies. These same sources suggest that there be quiet encouragement of pro-Ally groups in the French islands who could easily take them over.

McNARY FEEDS HIPPO

In the "elephant house" at the Washington zoo, onlookers noticed a distinguished gentleman trying to arouse the sleeping hippopotamus by poking him with a walking stick. It proved to be Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, entertaining his little adopted daughter.

"Come on, wake up, Rhino," said the distinguished Senator.

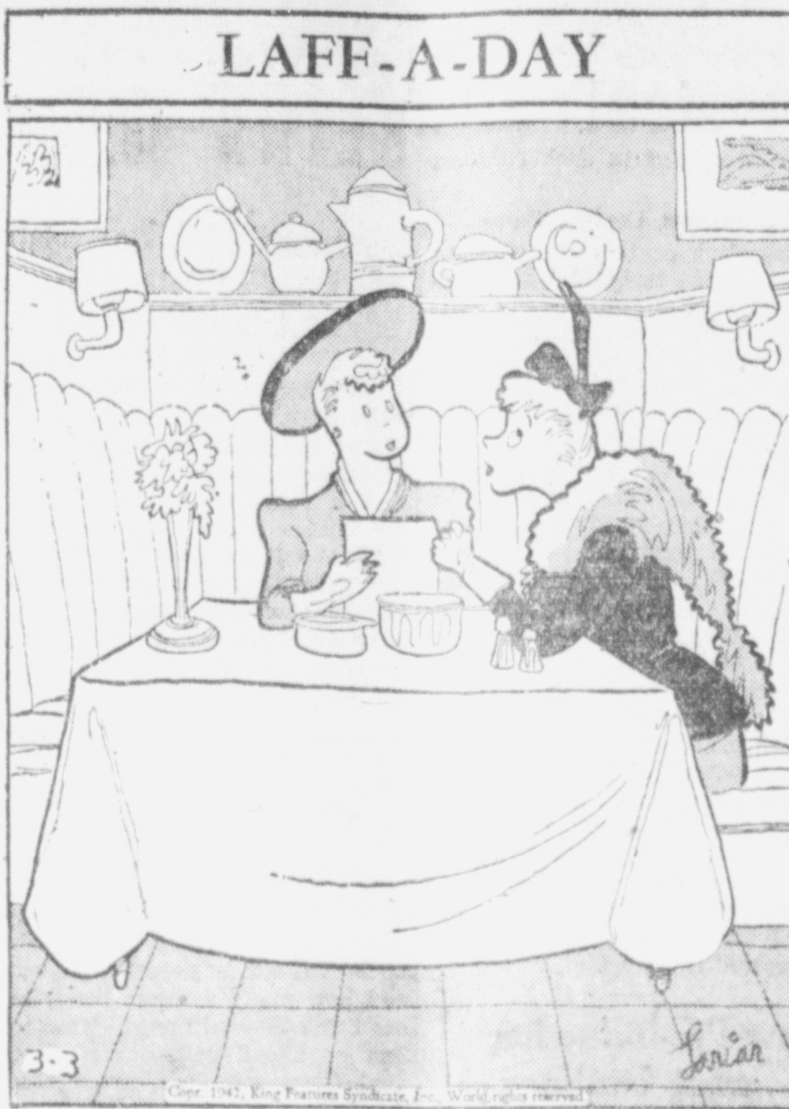

It wasn't a rhinoceros, but the name was effective, for the hippo raised its head out of the water, opened its mammoth jaws and begged for food.

The little girl threw a peanut, but it hit the hippo's teeth and bounced off. So Senator McNary took a peanut from her bag, aimed carefully, and threw it right down the hippo's throat.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Reason for Roosevelt's cough at the Washington Day dinner: He had spent about an hour giving his speech aloud for radio discs, and he was hoarse. The discs are to be shipped out all over the country. . . . High Navy officers boiled at Secretary Stimson's statement that fifteen enemy-destroyed planes were over Los Angeles last week. Navy insisted not a single plane was overhead. . . . Herbert Hoover, lunching with ex-Republican Chairman John Hamilton on the noon Pearl Harbor was invaded, paid tribute to Roosevelt's handling of foreign relations, said he was convinced the President was trying to keep us out of war. Since Mr. Hoover does not turn on the radio much, he did not know about Pearl Harbor until several hours later when he returned to his New

Dermatologist in Treating The Skin Has Advantages

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE DERMATOLOGIST, a specialist who treats skin diseases, has one or two great advantages. In the first place he can see what is wrong right before his eyes. He does not have to guess what changes have occurred underneath a layer of skin, or skin and bone, or skin and chest wall.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Another advantage that he has is that he can apply treatment immediately to the diseased spot. Of course the dermatologist uses a number of remedies internally too, because a lot of skin lesions are simply manifestations of the absorption of toxic substances or other internal derangement. But on general principles, the best remedies which we have are for local applications in skin troubles. Many of these you have used or have in your medicine cabinet, but you may not know what the theory of their use is.

Skin Sedatives

One set of remedies which the skin specialist uses most effectively are sedatives to the skin. Itching, soreness and irritation of the skin are just as bad as pain, or worse, and these things the dermatologist can usually control. One way of controlling them is simply by protecting the skin from the external air, covering it up with a layer of cold cream or vaseline. This is, of course, the fundamental treatment of burns. Any excoriation of the skin which uncovers the tissues beneath is likely to be made worse by exposure to air.

For itching, one remembers the old saying that "Camphor is the morphine of the skin." That is why camphor is so soothing and why it appears in so many skin ointments. Camphor soothes the nerve ends that cause the itching and substitutes a sensation of coolness and calm for the sensation of irritation.

Zinc Oxide

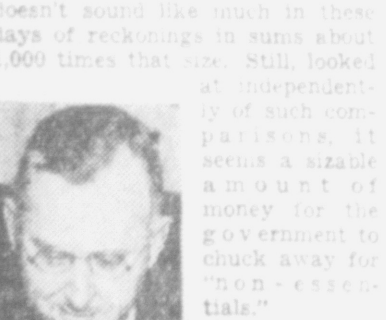

Another remedy which is soothing to the skin is zinc oxide. A form of zinc oxide is calamine, usually used in the form of a lotion. Another powerful remedy for itching is carbolic acid in a weak solution. It actually paralyzes the nerve endings.

Another group of skin remedies depend on their antiseptic value. These either kill germs or prevent further germ growth. Prominent among these is ammoniated mercury, which is usually used in an

WORLD AT A GLANCE

A MERE matter of $382,456,288 doesn't sound like much in these days of reckoning in sums about 3,000 times that size. Still, looked at independently, it seems a sizable amount of money for the government to chuck away for "non-essentials."

Harold D. Smith

It's the little item which, according to Director Harold D. Smith's budget bureau, President Roosevelt's business office is included in congress' 1942 appropriations to date, to be spent by our federal agencies for supplies and services that the country can perfectly well do without. The budget bureau adds that it isn't the non-essentials' total, to be sure. The bureau's still going ahead with its analysis of congressional appropriation figures and expects to add greatly to the trifling $382,456,288 already listed, but that's all it has to report just yet.

It isn't the plan to have the government refrain from spending this cash at all. The scheme, however, is to prevent it from going for non-essentials, turning it into essential directions instead, meaning war-time essentials almost exclusively. It's accomplished through the creation of a reserve fund.

How Reserve Operates

Assume, for example, that the agriculture department gets a larger allowance than the budget bureau thinks it needs; the estimated surplus is allocated to the reserve fund. Ditto awards to other departments and agencies. Then, when some essential situation, which hasn't been provided for, presents itself, the reserve fund is tapped to take care of it.

January 1 the fund was around $487,000,000. It's a bit more than 20 per cent smaller now, due to essential demands since then.

Far from being adversely criticized for this management, the executive end of the government generally is complimented for being as thrifty as it can. There are congressmen, however, who find plenty of fault with their own legislative organization for over-appropriating non-essentials. With wartime absolute necessities costing what they do today, they remark, this is a fine time to assign a single cent to foot a non-essential bill.

Transfer, as far as possible, of workers in the government's peacetime to its wartime departments and bureaus is, of course, part of the program of concentration upon the national emergency effort.

The switches are from non-essential to essential jobs.

But—The currently non-essential setups previously were considered as essential as the dickens. Weren't they as essential as they were supposed to be a few years farther back? Or, were they essential then but not now?

And, supposing an affirmative answer to the latter question, won't they be essential again, when the war emergency is past?

If they will, will it be a simple stunt to re-establish them? Their personnel will be scattered in every direction. They'll have to be resorted out and put back into a multiplicity of their old outfits. The civil service commission is trying to keep track of them, but it's a terrific hodge-podge.

That our wartime system in Washington will disintegrate with the return of peace is no safe bet, anyway.

They Usually Stick

A government bureau, once established, is practically eternal. We have them yet, dating back to the last war. The theory was that they were temporary, but they are still doing business at their old stands.

The best gamble is that our newly-developing aggregation will be equally permanent. If they prove to be so, we'll have to start in on the creation of an entirely new network of post-war, civilian offices, multiplying our capital's official population by about two, at least.

And already it is so thick that it is having to move out into the sticks, or the District of Columbia will burst.

The fact is that this isn't an emergency. It's a new era, and it promises to be something fierce. At present war's becoming normal, but I'll wager that the next peace won't be.

Gosh pity the next national administration!—assuming that the war isn't mercifully still raging when it comes in.

SYNOPSIS
ANETTE WINSLOW, 17, beautiful, and aspiring to fame on the stage, meets LAURENCE PEYTON, top-ranking actor, and AUGUST DRAKE, Peyton's leading lady. Larry in turn introduces her to HARRY LOIS LONDON, and her brother, JIMMY.

CHAPTER EIGHT
LAURENCE PEYTON barged through the door of his dressing room, then slammed it violently in the face of his leading lady. Entirely unhurt, August flipped the knob and sailed in after him. She also slammed the door violently.

For a moment she just stood there, while Larry yanked off his coat and shirt, and with flashing speed, reached for a tube of dark grease paint. He made rapid, vicious jabs with it, across both cheeks, and on his forehead, nose and chin.

August Drake moved to a chair beside him and sat down. Between heavily laden lashes, her eyes were scarcely perceptible. "I should think—" she began ominously.

"You've done enough thinking for one day," Larry yelled. "You've done all the thinking, all the planning." He mimicked, "I've finally persuaded these two dear friends of mine to get married." You persuaded! Why, you had all the enthusiasm of a loaded burro going up a mountain. He shook the paint tube at her with furious emphasis, then slung it to the shelf and began veritably slapping his face as he blended the deep color. "You've butted in, in every imaginable way and I'm sick of it. Holy cow, you'd think it was your wedding."

August straightened in her chair and reared back until she resembled an impressive, cheery prima donna. "Well," she jeered, "how nice to know you still can talk. You've been practically tongue-tied since the wedding ceremony. Really, I thought your voice had left you. I thought perhaps your understudy finally was to have his big chance after having waited five hopeful years for you to fall down stairs or choke to death." Suddenly she shrieked, "Stop! admiring yourself in that mirror and tell me why you've been doing a sphinx."

The actor expelled his breath with irritable impatience. "You know perfectly well I never talk when I'm as sore as I was this afternoon. And, August," he accented, "I am not admiring myself. I am getting ready for the show. And I suggest you do the same. Or doesn't the show interest you any longer? Would you rather plan weddings?"

"That wedding wouldn't have amounted to a hill of beans if I hadn't been along."

"Well, of all the brazen remarks!" Larry burst forth in anger. "I'll admit you tried to be the star, but I doubt if during your most conceited hour you'll be able to convince yourself that you were."

"Certainly not. I simply meant that I attended to the press advantages for you, so the affair wouldn't be a complete flop."

"The press be damned!" ranted Larry.

"On, stop behaving like a flame-belching dragon!" August retorted.

"You're a fine one to say anything against publicity. You've been nurtured on it. And don't ever get an hallucination that because you're a big shot you can get by without it."

Larry stopped his making up to face her. "Look, August, I met a sweet young girl. She reminded me of someone I saw through a window when I was a little boy. I wanted her. I decided I surely loved her to feel the way I did. So I married her, under the management of August Drake, Inc. Unfortunately, did it have to be done with reporters and cameras?"

"You make me sick!" the red-haired woman snapped. "Must you lose all sense of proportion because you're in love? Since you were determined to get married, you at least should get what it is worth to you in the papers."

"But you said," reminded Larry, "that it wasn't worth anything in the papers, because Anette was a nobody."

"It was worth something when I took charge," she smiled proudly. "It was very clever of me to telephone the boys while I was in the florist's. Besides, I made up a very nice story to tell them."

"You again!" Larry shouted in peevish denunciation. "If it hadn't been for your interference I'd at least have had the opportunity of taking my bride to the hotel and carrying her across the threshold of my apartment. There could have been a little sentiment. Instead, you spend so much time gabbling with the reporters that we have to dash here to make the curtain while the poor kid has to go to her club to pack and go on to my place alone."

August pronounced, "I wouldn't worry too much about the 'poor kid' if I were you. She not only is one of the prettiest girls I've ever seen, but she seems to have you completely twisted around her little finger. She'll do all right."

Laurence Peyton gave his leading lady a level look. "Whatever you do, don't pick on Anette." "Pick on her? I'm not going to pick on her, for the love of heaven. I doubt if I could and get by with it. She seems scrappy enough."

A slight smile appeared on her strained face. "Wouldn't it be funny if the temperamental Peyton had married a handful?" She dabbed her fingers into Larry's tin of cold cream and began taking off her street makeup. "So far as I'm concerned she doesn't mean a thing one way or the other."

"Still you didn't want me to marry her."

"I didn't want you to marry anyone. It is too apt to affect the show. You at least could have waited until we closed."

"And have Walt snap her up during the meantime? Don't be a fool, August. You don't know that guy's inner soul as I do. I saw right through him that first night in this dressing room. I had to take her while the taking was good."

"Proving that not even love has changed your usual grabby, selfish nature."

"Mr. Peyton will ignore Miss Drake's stiletto thrust." He rubbed brilliantine into his dark hair, then began massaging it with a rough towel. "August," he again reminded, "get your face on. I can't recall ever having seen you look worse."

Instead of answering, the woman peered into the looking glass for a long moment. "Yes, I look ghastly, don't I?" Sudden, steaming hot tears gushed into her eyes. "Oh, Larry," she whispered, "it's awful to see your face falling apart like an old plaster house left over from the Civil war." Through closed eyelashes she saw the look of sympathy that sprang to his face. She went on quickly, "Forgive me, Larry, for having butted in on your wedding. My scrambling for publicity, my interference in general, is like a prehistoric firehorse answering the alarm. I can't help it." She clamped her lids still tighter to make the tears flow down her cheeks. Larry put his hand on her arm. When she looked at him his eyes were responsibly damp.

"You're the finest friend in the world, August. And the finest actress. Don't talk slush."

A feeling of glorious satisfaction that she dared not show swept through the fiery-haired woman. Retaining her anguished look and manner, she denied the compliment. "No, Larry, I'm not. And I'm so tired tonight, I'll probably give a very poor performance. You'll have to give me a lot of support."

She clutched his hand. "Help me, Larry. Promise me you'll help me." She had his full attention now. "Help you? Of course I'll help you. Don't cry, August." Completely gone was his displeasure. With expert cunning, the actress managed fresh tears, although actually she was happy enough to do a brilliant time-step.

"Don't cry," he said again. "You can depend on me." She gave him a sad, gentle smile. "How right you are, gentle thought. By pretending to fear a weak performance myself, I'll keep you from giving one. I'll get dressed," she said softly, and left the room in a slow, head-bent walk.

Outside, she raced on tip-toe to her own dressing room. She addressed her nervous gray-haired maid. "Stop pacing, Katie! I've never missed a curtain yet, have I? Fix me some cracked ice in a washcloth. That's all the rejuvenation I'll have time for. During the first act, I want you to telephone the usual gang. Invite them to a party at my apartment. Eleven-thirty to-night. You go home during the second act and make sure everything is right—food, flowers, wine—this is a very special party. I'll tell you all about it while I make up."

"But, Miss Drake," Katie protested, "who will dress you?" "Am I an idiot?" the actress demanded, opening an opening in the ice-packed washcloth. "I'll dress myself, of course. I used to do it in the tent show."

"The tent show?" Horror shaded Katie's voice. "Why do you have to mention the tent show?" she scolded. "Why do you even have to think about it?"

"I don't know." A sudden curiosity filled August's mind. Well, why had she thought of the tent show? A miserable week in one place, cotton towels, fruit packing towns, all alike, all dingy and ugly. Days of travel in red plush chairs, cars, of cheap hotel rooms, and the tent itself on some vacant lot of dusty weeds or, worse still, mud.

She felt her eyes damp, then turned back against the ice-pack and knew she had been deceiving herself. Those tears before Larry had not been wholly a product of expert acting. They had been there waiting. Suddenly she knew why she had remembered the tent show. Back there 20 years ago, 22 years ago, or 23—how long had it been, anyway? Back there her own face had been as beautiful and angelic and untouched as Anette's.

With a gesture born of helpless despair, she yanked the icy washcloth from her tired face and slung it to the floor.

Flag Service Conducted At Monday Club Session

Girl Scouts Aid; Tickets Bought For Play

A beautiful American flag purchased by the Monday club was presented by Jo Ann Rader and Ann Renick, members of Girl Scout Troop No. 1, at the regular meeting Monday in the library trustees' room of Memorial hall. Miss Eleanor Snyder sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" at the close of the ceremony and the club members joined in the salute to the flag.

Mrs. Tom Renick, president, conducted the formal opening of the session. The club voted to donate money for tickets to the Cline Tree Major play, "The Sleeping Beauty", which will be presented in Circleville March 27 under the sponsorship of the Child Conservation league. The tickets will be given to needy children of the community.

Plans were made for three money-making projects for the club for 1942-1943, a new departure for this organization. The projects will be public and will be worked out by the program committee, in addition to the planned program of the year book. Defense bonds will be purchased with the money obtained.

Resolutions of respect in the death of Mrs. Charles Lewis were reported by the committee on death and resolutions, comprised of Miss Emily D. Yates, Mrs. Clark Will and Miss Abbe Mills Clark.

Mrs. Lawrence J. Johnson, chairman of the Literature and Drama division, presented Mrs. Robert Adkins and Miss Eleanor Ryan.

"Long Ago, at the End of the Route," by Mrs. Adkins, dealt with the mode of traveling in the colonial days. This interesting paper revealed that the vast body of colonists stayed at home. Travelers in the early part of the 17th century were obliged to go chiefly by water. At all times the waterways were quicker and less fatiguing.

As population increased and settlement was extended farther westward, the colonists were forced to travel by land, according to Mrs. Adkins' paper. The first roads in New England are traced in the early court records. "Roads Paths." When new paths were cut through the forests, the settlers "blazed" the trees. In transportation and travel, improvement of roadways is ever associated with improvement of vehicles.

In conclusion Mrs. Adkins said, "The establishment and building of roads, bridges and opening of inns show that mutual interest which marks civilization and separates us from the life of a savage."

Miss Ryan's paper, "A Lady Takes a Trip", cleverly described Madam Sarah Kemble Knight's journey from Boston to New York. The trip a distance of 271 miles, was completed in five months. Madam Knight's journal is famous for its sprightly tone, picture of colonial customs and descriptions of places through which she passed in her travels.

Some highlights of Miss Ryan's paper were: Madam Knight, as she was called in consideration of her situation in life, belonged to a substantial Boston family, and for the time in which she lived, was well educated.

"In those times it was unheard of for a woman to make a long journey unescorted. She made the trip by horseback and canoe, through forests and rivers. Although Madam Knight was often terrified, she restrained her fears;

Men from the state highway department began working on the state roads in the county shortly after midnight.

DYKES EXPERIMENTS WITH NEW OUTFIELD ASPIRANTS

PASADENA, Cal., March 3—Somewhat disappointed in his quest for promising new outfield material, Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox essayed a little legerdemain today and sent two of his infielders into the gardens in the hope of transporting them into Joe DiMaggio's.

The subjects of his experiment are Bob "Strong Arm" Kennedy, who has been an infielder all his life, and Murrell Jones, who played first base for Shreveport last season. Of Kennedy, Dykes said: "Our outfield is still shy of manpower. I really think Kennedy can develop into a good outfielder."

C. A. C. Defeats Trotters In Thrilling 45-44 Tilt

Circleville Athletic club cagers went into the big time Monday evening by defeating the crack Harlem Globe Trotter team of New York city in a 45-44 thriller. A foul toss by Red Roush at the end of the game broke the 44-44 deadlock.

Two years ago the Trotters won the national professional championship and will compete in the 1942 pro tourney at Chicago in the next couple of weeks.

The invading team featured brilliant passing and showmanship to keep the crowd in an uproar throughout the contest, but the CAC had the lead as the game ended.

The Athletic club held a 13-12 advantage at the quarter and held a 23-20 edge at halftime. The invaders turned on in the last half to grab a 34-29 lead as the third period closed. With five minutes remaining in the game the score was tied at 36-36. From that point the lead changed many times.

Blue Ribbon dairy and Emery club made it a Circleville night by winning 49-36 from Amanda and 41-20 from a Chillicothe team, respectively.

Three squads of 36 teams each will bowl tonight. Promptly at 7:30, the first contingent of regular teams will line up at the approaches to the 60-foot alleys and start the bowl rolling for the roller's 72-day marathon.

Following them at 9:30, booster teams of Elks Clubs from 30 Ohio cities will shoot the mineralite 16-pound spheres down the lanes for a crack at the $450 which the booster squads split at that round.

With 36 booster teams from the host city, Columbus commencing activities at 11:30, the opening night of the 42nd annual ABC tournament will come to a close about 1:30 in the morning.

during a short workout, Gordon is one of six Yankee hold-outs but it was believed he would reach an agreement with the club over salary differences by the end of the week.

85 RESPOND TO CALL FOR ILLINOIS GRID DRILLS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 3—Football at the University of Illinois, in the doldrums frequently during the latter years of Coach Bob Zuppke's regime, was looking up today.

One of the largest turnouts of candidates in the history of the institution, 85 prospective players, greeted Zup's successor, Ray Eliot, for the first day of spring training.

Eliot and his assistants put the players through fundamentals as a preliminary to regular training. Tony Blazine, former Chicago Cardinal and New York Giant pro star, was on hand for the first time as an assistant coach.

EZZARD CHARLES HOLDS OVERLIN TO DEADLOCK

CINCINNATI, March 3—Local promoters today sought to arrange a return bout between Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati schoolboy, and Ken Overlin, former world middleweight champion.

They battled to a draw last night in 10 rounds of good fighting. Charles flashed a left jab to take the margin in the early rounds but Overlin rallied in the seventh and held a clean-cut edge from there on.

New Clerk Will Be Indorsed For Election Board

Democratic Committee Meets Tuesday Eve To Consider Successor To Claude Kraft

With several candidates reported to be receiving consideration, Pickaway county Democratic executive committee will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the courthouse to indorse a nominee for clerk of the board of elections.

The term of Claude D. Kraft of Ashville, Republican clerk, has expired, and since a Democratic secretary of state is in office it is presumed that a Democrat will be appointed to the position. When the election board is unable to agree on a clerk, a recommendation is made to the secretary of state by the political party in authority.

In addition to the new clerk, two additional members of the election board are starting their terms. They include John Himrod, indorsed by the Democratic committee, and C. E. Roof Jr., indorsed by the Republican executive committee. Himrod replaces Russell Imler, who has been serving as chairman, and Roof takes the position held by Tom J. Burget of Orient.

Holdover members of the board are James Tootle of Monroe township, Democrat, and Orin Dreisbach of Circleville township, Republican.

ARMY MEN AT SHELBY DIVIDE HUGE PAY POT

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., March 3.—Payday brought the disbursement today of $2,195,000 to military and civilian personnel at Camp Shelby.

The payroll, according to camp authorities, was distributed as follows:

38th Division — Officers, $170,000; enlisted men, $500,000.

43rd Division — Officers, $175,000; enlisted men, $475,000.

Non-divisional units — Officers, $250,000; enlisted men, $400,000.

Civilian employees, $225,000.

This is the last payday for the 38th and 43rd as square divisions, reorganization of both units as triangular divisions having been ordered by the War Department to take effect immediately.

Under the streamlining program, each of the divisions will last a large number of men.

Many men of the 43rd Division found an extra $2.35 in their pay envelopes today, the increase representing a portion of the additional $10 a month to which soldiers are entitled after completing a year of service.

The 43rd Division observed the anniversary of its first year in service on February 24, and all men with the division when it was inducted received extra pay from that date.

SLAIN SCHOOL GIRL AND SLAYER

Dorothy Broz and Clarence McDonald

Insane jealousy was believed the motive for the theater slaying of Miss Dorothy Broz, 17-year-old Chicago school girl. Police said Clarence McDonald, 17, confessed to shooting Miss Broz as they sat together in a Chicago theater balcony watching a movie. Photo of Miss Broz and McDonald was taken last New Year's Eve.

NEW GOP CHAIRMAN?

It's very shush-shush, but in certain inner Republican circles there have been secret pow-wows on replacing Representative Joe Martin as National Chairman.

The hardworking little Bay Stater wanted to quit last year, but party chiefs decided that the wisest course would be to persuade Martin to stay for the sake of harmony.

Now some of the strongest advocates of his retention are after his scalp. The hostile fire is from two sources.

One is from mid-west leaders, sour on Martin, (1) for his failure to give them recognition in national headquarters; (2) for his secret financial wooing of Pennsylvania oil millionaire Joseph Pew and Pennsylvania steel millionaire Ernest Weir.

In the farm belt the two big-money contributors are political dynamite and the mid-west GOP chiefs can't understand why Martin is palling around with them. So they feel the time has come for one of their group to be named either National Chairman or Executive Director and they have decided that it's time that Martin was checked out.

The other group gunning for Martin are anti-isolationists, long opposed to his strong isolationist leanings.

After Pearl Harbor and Martin's earnest talk of national unity, this faction was willing to forgive his previous isolationist voting record in Congress. But they called all bets off when out of a clear sky he suddenly appointed Clarence Budington Kelland publicity director of the National Committee. Kelland is a fervid isolationist and a man who, politically speaking, does not know when to come in out of the rain. Note: If Martin does decide to hold a meeting of the National Committee next month, he plans to stage it in Chicago as a sop to mid-west leaders.

At that time, no one dreamed France would fold, and Morgenthau got tons of Senatorial criticism heaped upon him when a French test pilot cracked up a plane in Los Angeles, revealing that the French had placed orders here. However, he plugged ahead.

Later we took over most of these French planes — though some have been rusting away on Martinique.

Note: Roosevelt was denounced by Senator Nye and other isolationists four years ago when he was quoted as saying "America's frontier is on the Rhine." Only mistake was he should have said it was in Africa, Australia and North Ireland.

Kiwanis Club To Bring Col. Muhlenberg To City

An entertaining and instructive evening is promised next Monday when Circleville Kiwanians bring Colonel H. C. Kress Muhlenberg of the Army Air Corps to Circleville for an address in the high school building. Colonel Muhlenberg will speak at 8 p. m., the public being invited. Tickets are available from all Kiwanians.

Colonel Muhlenberg was recently in the national news because of a court-martial through which he was forced to go because of some alleged statements made following the attack on Pearl Harbor. An Army court quickly exonerated him of any untoward statements.

Colonel Muhlenberg will speak on the Hawaiian islands on which he served several years when in actual Air Corps service. He was there from 1915 to 1917 and from 1937 to 1940, a total of more than four years. In addition to lecturing concerning the islands, he shows colored motion pictures of the area which have been pronounced as unequalled. He speaks of the islands' geography, geology and racial percentages.

The Air Corps man is a descendant of the Muhlenberg family for whom Muhlenberg township, Pickaway county, was named. One of his ancestors was General Peter Muhlenberg who served with
